3. [   ] Federal Account Manager for Cray Research, opened the meeting with a review of the topics to be discussed and introduced the briefers. Mr. John Aldag, Scientific Applications Analyst and Manager of Cray's General Supercomputer Applications Division, reviewed several scientific applications for which the supercomputers are already used including weather forecasting, seismic analysis, image processing, and nuclear simulation. He also explained the requirements for integrating Cray supercomputers into existing computer centers, commenting that Cray machines are totally compatible with IBM-VM centers such as those at CIA. Mr. Bob Ewald, Director of Education Marketing at Cray, spoke about the future of supercomputing, especially for artificial intelligence programs. After answering several questions from Board members and guests, the Cray team left to brief senior managers in ODP. [   ]   25X1

4. The next meeting will be 12 December 1984 at 1500 hours in the DO Conference Room (6D49). The Chairman of the Computer Security Working Group will brief the Board on an investment strategy for improving computer security. (U)
